Something's Coming from West Side Story	Bernstein & Sondheim
Hey, Sokoly! Lo there, somewhere from above the black waters, a young cossack mounts his horse. Sadly he parts with his girl. But even more sadly with Ukraine. Hey, Hey, Hey Falcons! Fly past the mountains, forests and valleys. Ring, ring, ring little bell, My steppe little skylark. Hey, Hey, Hey Falcons! Fly past the mountains, forests and valleys. Ing, Ring, Ring little bell, My steppe bell, bell, bell. There are many girls in the world, but the most in Ukraine. There I left my heart with my beloved girl. Sorrow, sorrow for that girl. For green Ukraine; Sorrow, sorrow, the heart is crying. i will never see her again.	Traditional Polish Song

Will There Really Be A Morning? (A poem by Emily Dickinson) Will there really be a morning? Is there such a thing as day? Could I see it from the mountains if I were as tall as they? Has it feet like water lilies? Has it feathers like a bird? Is it brought from famous countries of which I have never heard? Oh some scholar! oh, some sailor! oh, some wise men from the skies! Please to tell a little pilgrim where the place called morning lies!	R. Gray & Emily Dickinson
